

Year 3 Summer 1

What can Worldviews tell us about conflict, peace, forgiveness and reconciliation that is important?

Christian Worldviews, Muslim Worldviews, Jewish Worldviews, Hindu Worldviews

Questions:

What is reconciliation and what do reconcilers say about it?

Why is reconciliation so important in Christian worldviews?

Is reconciliation important in Jewish worldviews?

What is ummah and why is it important in Muslim worldviews?

What is ahimsa and why is it important in worldviews based on Sanatan Dharma?

Are peace and reconciliation important in non-religious worldviews?

Living Well

Theology

Philosophy

Knowledge Building Blocks:

- Those with Christian worldviews usually believe that Jesus's death and resurrection is what reconciled humans back to God the Father.
- Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are festivals that often have significance for those with Jewish worldviews. Forgiveness is a central aspect of these special times.
- 'Ummah' is an Arabic word meaning 'community' which is central for many with Muslim worldviews. The Ahmadiyya Muslim community have a particular focus on peace.
- The Five Pillars are different ways those with Muslim worldviews can practice ummah. These are the shahada, zakat, salat, sawm and hajj.
- 'Ahimsa' is a Sanskrit word that means 'non-violence' and it is often an important concept in Sanatan Dharma for those with Hindu worldviews

Key Vocabulary:

Reconciliation : the restoration of friendly relations, often after conflict.

Ummah: Arabic word meaning community, used in Muslim Worldviews.

Ahimsa: Word for non-violence, used in Hindu worldviews.