

Online Safety Do's & Don'ts

Name

Date

Look at the scenario's below and decide if each one is something you should always do when you go online, sometimes do, or never do when you go online.

Use a nickname or username instead of your real name when playing games online.

Create a strong password using a mix of letters, numbers, and symbols, and keep it secret.

Agree to meet someone in person that you've only met online.

All links are safe to click on.

Use a photo of yourself for your profile picture

Tell a trusted adult when something doesn't feel right online.

You can always trust the information you read online.

Share your address, phone number, or school name with people you meet online.

Post things online you wouldn't want your family, teachers, or future employers to see.

My support crew:

Three people who can help me if things go wrong online:

-  .....
-  .....
-  .....

Report and block anyone who sends mean or inappropriate messages.

