

The human body is truly the outside, it comes in shapes, and sizes. People are different enough to tell each other apart. At the same time, we're all carrying a head atop our shoulders, two arms and two legs around wherever we go. Inside our

